

Advisor Agreement

Welcome:

We are excited to welcome you to this ground-breaking virtual service connecting women in industry with highschool girls and their guidance officers!

The opportunity to inspire, engage and guide the next generation is about to occur, and your participation as an industry representative is paramount to the success of this service.

Your contribution is important:

By becoming a volunteer Advisor with UNIQ YOU, you are opening a virtual doorway between industry and education.

You are also providing opportunities for girls within regional and remote Australia to gain equal access and impactful career information.

Your contribution will not only be assisting the next generation of women to achieve their goals of career advancement in female underrepresented fields, but also elevate your professional profile internally and externally. We appreciate your commitment to this opportunity to 'give back' and create better informed pathways to industry whilst gaining personal satisfaction from volunteering.

In a world that accepts 'zoom calls' as the new norm, recent rapid technology adoption within both the education sector and wider industries has created the perfect opportunity to break down the geographic, socio-economic and cultural barriers that exist between girls and their access to a wide variety of inspiring, but underrepresented role models.

The experience:
