Student Feedback

Take a look at some of the inspiring and thoughtful feedback we've received from students so far in 2025.

“What I found most interesting about this session was the number of opportunities available within the industry. I was also surprised about the topics that are necessary for becoming a civil engineer. It was so enjoyable and funny and I would like to continue conversations.”

“What inspired me the most was the different stories the speakers had; especially them being female and one a women of colour”.

“Finding out that it is possible to manage having a labouring job while also having spare time to do hobbies you enjoy.”

“I really enjoyed learning about the specifics of Sherry's job and what's involved/needed to do her job. I actually realised that the skills required are very similar to what I enjoy at school and I wouldn't have even considered submissions manager if we didn't have that conversation.”

“It taught me about a job I didn't know existed and now I know there are many more options out there.”

“I enjoyed learning about the mining industry, and how life as a FIFO worker was like. It was good to get a view of a female in this industry to learn about the things we could do.”

“The thing I found the most enjoyable was the new information I learnt in this lesson, such as how diverse and flexible this area of work is.”

Educator Feedback

Take a look at some of the inspiring and thoughtful feedback we've received from educators so far in 2025.

"I already have students discussing their routes to these roles, it's very exciting!".

"I found the session really inspired our younger learners to consider their career options. It opened their eyes to the opportunities available to them and the pathways into it."

"The most valuable part was giving students a chance to hear real-world insights from industry professionals in a small, interactive setting. It helped them understand different career paths and sparked meaningful questions and interest."

"It encouraged them to undertake work experience to find things they do/don't enjoy, but most importantly, it helped them understand they aren't locked into one career path."

"The session was very insightful and impactful. The students were more confident discussing career opportunities, particularly in front of the class. This program certainly helps spark meaningful conversations around their future career paths and aspirations."

"The session has really helped students make better decisions about their future. Hearing from real people in different jobs made things clearer for them, and even some discovered new careers they hadn't thought about before. It gave them confidence to explore what they're really interested in."
